

Covid-19, information week 47

In recent days, covid-19 has shown an increase and restrictions have been strengthened in Dalarna. This means that we must all help to relate to the guidelines of the Public Health Agency and the directives that are now being introduced in pre-school, school in Ludvika.

Pick-up and drop-off

School and leisure children may be left and picked up outdoors, the guardians should not enter the premises unless absolutely necessary. Drop-off and pick-up at the preschool is also done as much as possible outdoors or with possible restrictions on the number of guardians in the hall. The administration also wants to encourage no new contacts to pick up and leave children and pupils, based on the public health authority's recommendations not to contribute to the creation of new contact chains.

Children who fall ill during working hours

When children and students fall ill during the day, staff will contact guardians. The assessment made by staff is not medical, but the preschool/school calls when children/pupils show symptoms or when the child/student is judged not to be able to participate in the education. In order not to allow the child/student to stay in the activity with symptoms, it becomes important that the right contact details and availability are available to your guardian. The administration encourages all guardians to update contact information and schedule via the Tieto app.

Activities over Christmas

At the end of the semester, it is customary for the education at the pre-school and after-school care centres to be merged and moved to another unit. Based on covid-19I, the situation is different. In order for the administration to be able to do the best based on children, students and staff. Should you guardians submit your need for care during the period 21/12-2020 - 8/1-2021 to the respective preschool and after-school and leisure center and update the schedule on the Tieto Edu-app.

In case of symptoms

If children and pupils have had symptoms for more than one day and are not tested, they need to stay at home for at least seven days. Return to work, school or other activities can take place after recovery and if at least seven days have passed since the illness. The last two days must have been without fever and with good general condition.

In case of occasional short-term symptoms that pass within one day and that cannot be explained by any known cause (such as migraine or allergy), you need to stay at home and be completely symptom-free for at least two days before returning to work, school or other activities. This is to ensure that the symptoms were indeed temporary.

This is even if you have mild symptoms (mild cough and snuffle or odour and taste loss) remain and is based on the assessment that individuals and are based on the assessment that individuals with a normal recovery do not infect others with covid-19 after seven days.

In case of detected infection of covid-19 in the family .

Healthy children and pupils in a household where someone is sick in covid-19 can go to preschool, primary school, after-school or upper secondary school, but should otherwise follow the rules of conduct. Guardians who are ill should only leave or pick up children in pre-school or school if the family does not have a healthy replacement and that this can be done without the risk of others being infected.
